About Whitepages

Whitepages is the leading source for contact information in North America and is at the forefront of developing services that help people find, understand and verify personal and business identities in an ever-changing digital world. With over 55 million unique monthly users, Whitepages offers access to more than 250 million personal identities and provides users with the ability to control their own. Whitepages also operates Whitepages Pro, an API and web-based service, which helps businesses verify the identities of their customers.

About Whitepages Pro

Whitepages Pro is a leading global provider of phone, address, and name data for people and businesses. Our solutions help companies grow revenue, reduce operating costs, minimize fraud and decrease processing times. Whitepages Pro's best in class phone data and graph-structured database with proprietary entity linking technology provides increased insight into the most recent data available for current and potential customers.
